GEO. CHITTY MURDERED IN OREGON BUSH

The body of George Chitty, 34, Xenia, victim of a murder-robbery in a mountainous region of Oregon, while en route to Alaska to work in a gold mine, will not be returned to Xenia.

Burial will be made at Fossil, Ore., where the body is being held. Robert Chitty, Pittsburgh, Pa., a brother of the Xenian, who arrived in Xenia Monday, will go to Oregon to make funeral arrangements and may be accompanied by another brother.

Information received by relatives from Oregon authorities indicated Chitty was shot from behind May 2 and that a 30-30 rifle bullet wound was found in the back of his head. After a two-day search, the body was found buried in sand near Ontone, Ore., not far from Fossil.

Chitty's confessed slayer, Claude E. Cline, 43, transient gold seeker, is in custody at Fossil, where he promised to lead authorities to the grave of a Portland, Ore., miner, whom he also admitted slaying last August, burying his body in the same Spanish gulch district.

College Junior-Senior Banquet

Held Monday In Dayton

A summer garden scene made an attractive setting for the annual junior senior banquet of Cedarville College at the Dayton Y. M. C. A. Monday evening. Fifty persons, including members of the junior and senior classes, faculty members and guests, attended.

Paper, streamers in pastel hues formed a canopy over the tables while a profusion of spring flowers were employed throughout the banquet hall. The program represented water lilies and flowers were attached to the nut cups at each cover. Favors were miniature candy bars attached to the place cards.

During the dinner hour music was furnished by the Gilman trio, Springfield.

Mr. Neil Hartman, president of the junior class presided as toastmaster and the address to the seniors was given by Mr. Arthur Geake, junior class vice president. Mr. Russell Roberts, senior class president, responded and Mr. Ted James sang a solo, "The House by the Side of the Road." Dr. W. R. McClesney, retiring president of the college, spoke briefly and the college male quartet, composed of Messrs. Ted James, Justin Northrup, Rayden Johnson and Donald Foulks, sang "Sylvia".

A theatre party was enjoyed following the program.

To the Voters of Greene Co.—

We wish to thank you for your splendid support in the recent primaries . . . Our past promises of properly executing the duties of the Sheriff's office will continue to be rigidly observed by all of us! Again, thanks to all of you!

Infant Son Is Taken To City Hospital

Richard, the 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Finney was taken to Springfield City Hospital Saturday evening. The child swallowed a piece of old paint and putty, which lodged in the trachea.

He was operated upon Saturday evening and the paint and putty, being brittle broke into small pieces, but five were removed. Again on Thursday an operation was performed but the other two pieces, still in the trachea, had dropped lower and could not be reached, with instruments at hand.

Another operation will be necessary in the near future, as soon as he regains his strength.

His condition at this time is as well as could be expected.

A Hired Man

By Charles Hume Lewis

"He has worked here forty-two years, and he is like a member of the family," said Mrs. Simpson in speaking about her hired man. "He came here as a youth of sixteen years. He wanted to work on a farm. His father could get something. They were poor, and there was quite a family. We took Bill. He has been with us since. Mr. Simpson always liked him, and trained him for the farm work. Harry is our only child, and is younger than Bill, but they get along fine. Of course Harry is much like his father who died eight years ago. You see Bill is just part of the place."

Here is a successful farm hand, and the story Mrs. Simpson related was interesting. Many are accounted successful in many lines, a large number in prominent positions, but most of the others in the more-or-less humble though honorable walks of life. Each makes his contribution to the general welfare of our humanity in its onward progress. Bill is a normal individual, intelligent, efficient, contented. He has done his part in helping to keep the farm up to a high standard. He has something of the poet's enjoyment of Nature in him. He finds some delight in that the buildings are well located, painted, and in excellent repair. The premises presented the appearance of neatness to the casual observer. This season a younger hired man is working with Bill. This is to ease up the work for Bill whose health however is fine because of the outdoor life. Harry's supervision is always considerate, and never offensive.

"Did Bill ever think of establishing a home of his own?" I asked.

"No, I do not think he ever considered it seriously," replied Mrs. Simpson. "He never went with the girls much. He never owned a horse and buggy or an automobile. He helped take care of his parents with his earnings, until they were gone. He never ran around very much. He has however taken an interest in the Schneider family. It is rather amusing too. He goes over there nearly every evening for an hour. When Mrs. Schneider was born, Bill got her a little blanket and a toy rattle. He has kept up his gifts to her all thru the years. Often they were simple things but Mrs. Schneider was always gracious about it. After her marriage, her husband just considered it a neighborly kindness.

When their Ruth was born, he bought her presents and has kept it up. She is now thirteen. It is just his way. It is an outlet for his generosity, and his visits there are variations in his program. You see farm work might be quite cheerless if it were not for the happy variations which come along. Bill gets his by his kindness to the Schneiders who are always nice to him. We never could get Bill to go to church regularly but he is a good man, perfectly reliable and honorable. His kindness to the Schneiders is the expression of his ideal. I think you might call it Platonic love. Anyhow it's like a spiritual comradeship."

What an interesting story! Mrs. Simpson I think you have said a lot of nice things about Bill. I am going to pass it on to others."

Roof Is Blown Off Of House

A woman was injured and a dwelling damaged Wednesday at about 7:40 a. m., when a tornado swept over a property east of Plattsburg, Clark County.

The roof on the home of John Nicholson was blown into a tree in a nearby field, and the front of the brick home, a remodeled school, was damaged.

Mrs. Robert Shawl, the daughter of Mr. Nicholson, was cut and bruised by falling bricks. She was treated by a South Charleston physician. Other members of the family escaped uninjured. The Nicholson family was taken to the home of Frank Sohagen, owner of the property.

Heavy rain accompanied the high wind.

Township Census Placed At 1196

J. Lloyd Confar, census enumerator in the township has completed his work and reports the population at 1196, but no comparison with ten years ago can be made at this time in the absence of former records.

He says the county has ten miles, 2 Angola goats and 2 pea fowls. There are but eight vacant houses in the township that are habitable.

Tractor Explodes, Farmer Injured

When the tractor of Paul Atkinson, 50, mired in a field he was plowing, sparks from the exhaust set fire to a straw pile, flames spread to the tractor, the gasoline tank exploded, the tires were burned off and Atkinson suffered burns on the left cheek and left wrist.

Atkinson and his father, Charles Atkinson, Maple Corner rd., were plowing on the Jeff Wright farm near the Atkinson place. The older Atkinson escaped injury.

JEREMIAH DENOUNCES FALSE PROPHETS

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 23:1-24:7
GOLDEN TEXT—Jeremiah 23:18: "I have not sent these prophets, hold fast that which is good."—Thessalonians 5:21.

Tickling the vanity and pleasing the ears of ungodly people with words of flattery and false comfort, giving them the assurance of peace and prosperity in the very pursuit of their sin, did not begin with the false prophets of the twentieth century. Six hundred years before Christ, Jeremiah the prophet had to contend with such false teachers.

His manner of dealing with them is of great interest to us, for essentially the false prophets of that day used the same methods and had the same false message that characterize their descendants of today, the so-called modernistic religious leaders who are busy everywhere attempting to undermine the faith of God's children in His Word. They are revealed as being destitute of divine authority, without a real message, and under the disavow and subject to the judgment of God. They are:

I. Without Divine Commission (vv. 1-22).

"I have not sent these prophets," that should have been sufficient for the people of Judah. A man who is not sent by God has no word from heaven, no help for needy humanity. He is worse than an admittedly secular teacher or philosopher, for he claims to speak with divine authority and yet has only the disappointing impotence of a liar and a fraud.

The reason Judah listened to them was because they so eloquently hushed the condemning voice of their own consciences, assuring them that all was well, when, as a matter of fact, everything was wrong. He listened to the same kind of teaching today for the very same reason.

II. Without a Divine Message (vv. 23-29).

These false prophets may delude men, but they have not fooled God. He is not a finite being, limited to this earth (v. 23). He looks on men from the far off viewpoint of heaven and judges by His own high and holy standards.

"Nor can they hide from Him (v. 24). God hears the word spoken in the academic shelter of a college classroom, secretly poisoning the young person's heart against the faith of his father and mother. A day of judgment also awaits those who in their public utterances use the phraseology of orthodoxy, while in private they undermine and destroy Christian faith.

If a man is foolish enough to suppose that the dreamings of his own mind and heart will help anyone, let him be honest enough to call them just that; namely, dreams (vv. 25-28). But God will assuredly not hold those men guiltless who try to pass off their own philosophies as bearing the approval of God; who would have people honor their assemblies as Christian churches, when they are at best only social or intellectual gatherings, designed to magnify man rather than Christ.

Note in verse 29 that the Word of God is like the fire that consumes and purifies, and also like the hammer that breaks up the rocky heart of man.

III. Without Divine Favor and Blessing (vv. 30-32).

God is against every false prophet. "Small wonder that there is the savour of death in their speaking and their works. There is no divine power in their message and no holy dynamic to enable people to respond to their admonitions. Prominent modernists are decaying in our day the fact that their cultured essays and polished philosophies are not saving the hearts of men and are failing to transform lives. At the same time, humble preachers and teachers of God's Word, sometimes in hidden and remote places, are rejoicing as they see the transforming grace of God come upon lives as a result of their simple proclamation of the gospel of grace. Keep on, brethren; God is with you.

Observe what God calls the false prophets—thieves (v. 30) and liars (v. 32). Hard words, but they come from One who is all-knowing, who judges rightly and in love.

Like the Shadow

I am gone like the shadow when it declineth; I am tossed up and down as the locust. My knees are weak through fasting; my flesh faileth of fatness; I became also a reproach unto them; when they looked upon me they shook their heads.—Psalm 109:23-25.

He Doth Not Yet Appear

You are not what you ought to be, and you are not what you can be. You may rise yet, and fight a good fight yet, and be a good man once more, after the likeness of God who made you, and Christ who died for you!—Charles Kingsley.

One way to be sure that the brine for meat curing is strong is to keep adding salt until the solution will float an egg.

Many farms have trees planted to serve as windbreaks in winter and to supply shade in summer. A good windbreak needs at least three rows of trees.

A good ration for a brood sow is about half a pound of oats daily, a small amount of some protein supplement, such as tankage or soybeans, a good legume hay and sufficient corn to gain about a pound a day up to farrowing.

Farmers Discuss

Egg Auction

Possibility of establishing an egg auction in Greene County was discussed when Ralph Crooks, manager of the Versailles Egg Auction, Versailles, O., met in Xenia Wednesday night with poultrymen of this county. Greene County produces one and one-half million dozen eggs annually, according to County Agent E. A. Drake, and many poultrymen are interested in selling their egg produce on a federal-supervised graded basis.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION

At a meeting held April 30, 1940, the Board of Trustees of the Sustentation Fund of the General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church in North America, enacted a resolution dissolving the corporation, and directing the president and secretary to certify a certificate of dissolution to the Secretary of State of Ohio.

FARM TOPICS

SHOULD TURN EGGS WHILE INCUBATING

Poultry Expert Cites Four Fundamental Factors.

By Dr. W. C. Thompson, Poultry Husbandman, New Jersey Experiment Station.

Temperature, ventilation, moisture and change of position are the four fundamental factors in obtaining good hatches in incubators.

Changing the position of the embryos during the three weeks of development within the shell is very important. Mother hens, incubating their setting of eggs on the old-fashioned nest, usually move the eggs beneath them at least twice during the day, thus tending to equalize the exposure of each egg to the conditions of temperature, fresh air and moisture, all of which must be uniformly applied to each egg.

In the operation of the modern incubator, man can well copy this rule of the hen. Experimental evidence seems to indicate that he can go the hen one better by doubling the number of turnings during each 24-hour period.

If hatching eggs are changed in position once every six hours, optimum results, other things being equal, will generally result. It is partly a matter of preventing the sticking of the developing embryo to some one position within the shell, and partly a matter of equalizing the exposure of the respective eggs to the conditions which will bring about normal, natural embryonic growth.

Most modern incubators are provided with devices for turning eggs. It is important to be regular and consistent in this practice. It is one of those many small items which, taken collectively, spell successful hatching and the production of chicks.
